suppose a group of "offended" americans demand the removal of all memorials and statues that honor soldiers who fought in the vietnam war? sound preposterous? maybe not. in today's society where it's "saving the memorials to war dead" fascist and nationalist movements on both sides threaten to rip the longstanding union in half, each side blaming the other for the outcome of the war and the forfeit state of their economy (despite it) great war alternate end one of cuba's most senior diplomat switches from spanish to english when he describes the pact at which many cubans expected a new president joe biden to ease despite promises to lift some trump sanctions, biden leaves cuba in deep freeze monument removals and a replica of the temple mayor pyramid inflamed critics, but can mexico's populst government spark an indigenous cultural renaissance?
